Dear Parents,

Music brings life to the world. Learning music has been proven to have a number of positive benefits on children, including aiding brain development, improving cognitive function, reducing stress and building social skills.

We are proud to announce to the 'SaPa – Subramaniam Academy of Performing Arts' from Nursery to Grade 2 in the AY 2019-20. SaPa in Schools has collaborated with Norwegian Academy of Music , UNICEF and leading musicians from around the globe.

The mission of SaPa in Schools is to teach art not only for arts' sake, but also promote a larger vision around how Indian and global music can be used to spread global cultural awareness, peace and tolerance, and promote sustainable living.

The strength of the program is age appropriate teaching methodologies, which includes activities, books, audio and video material, student assessment and teacher training.

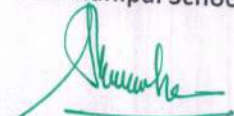

How the program works:

- Provides each student with learning material, including a textbook and app based access to audio material.
- Students have one period of music per week which is timetabled. Activity based learning and students also have access to simple instruments and specially created video content.
- Music room on the school campus with specially created artwork and instruments.
- Trained music faculty on both syllabus and methodology.
- Monthly lesson plans which are checked and verified by the SaPa Coordinator.
- Conducts two workshops per year where professional musicians perform for and interact with the students at the school.
- At the end of the academic year, assessments are conducted for students by external examiners and students are certified.
